However, Edvance MedTech shall not be responsible or liable for the availability, quality, completeness, or technical functionality of such recordings. Recordings, when available, are provided “as-is” without any warranties or guarantees regarding their accessibility or continued availability.
7. Edvance MedTech shall not be responsible or liable for any content, statements, opinions, advice, or information shared by trainers, instructors, or guest speakers during live Educational Services, webinars, or interactive sessions. All such content represents the individual views of the speaker and does not necessarily reflect the positions, policies, or endorsements of Edvance MedTech. Participants should independently verify any information received during Educational Services and consult appropriate professional advisors for specific guidance relevant to their circumstances.
